Recommendations

Below is a complete list of all my professional accolades and recommendations.

Jenna Ingersoll | Head of Knowledge & Documentation at Big Fish Games

Theadora is a hard-working, dedicated technical writer who continuously strives to improve and grow. In the 3 ½ years I've worked with them, I've witnessed tremendous growth—not only in their writing ability but also in the key skills that make them an exceptional professional. Theadora has taken ownership of projects, collaborated seamlessly with engineering teams, strengthened their project management abilities, and even developed confidence in public speaking.

Theadora brings a unique blend of attention to detail, curiosity, and adaptability. What truly sets Theadora apart, however, is their collaborative nature and eagerness to take on new challenges. They approach every project with a positive attitude, communicate effectively across teams, and consistently go the extra mile to ensure clarity and quality in documentation. I regularly receive compliments on how easy and enjoyable Theadora is to work with—whether from engineers, project managers, or stakeholders. Their ability to listen, adapt, and respond to feedback makes them an invaluable team member, and I have no doubt they will continue to thrive in any role they take on.

Larry Plotnick | President of Big Fish Games, ex-Amazon

Theadora was a pleasure to work with at Big Fish as well as a top contributor. One example was when Theadora automated many of our manual workflows for compiling the SDK documentation, making our processes more efficient and more useful for users. Theadora also took on extra work to maintain the documentation with release notes, identifying improvements and maintaining communication across team. Theadora is a strong collaborator, and project manager who bring clarity, technical accuracy, audience awareness and strong editing and proofreading skills to everything they touch.

Robert Rapier | Director of UI & UX at Big Fish Games

I had the great pleasure of working with and mentoring Theadora Valerian at Big Fish Games where he consistently demonstrated exceptional consideration and expertise in Technical Documentation for our internal and external partners. His thoughtful, detail-oriented approach to his craft, combined with his regularly demonstrated technical competency of the content he managed, organized, and provided, were instrumental in delivering easily digestible user-friendly artifacts.

Beyond his technical knowledge expert level documentation chops, Theadora is a proactive and collaborative team player who respectfully strives to elevate those around him. His professionalism and earnest desire for personal and professional growth made him an invaluable asset to our team. I highly recommend him for any senior or lead technical writing roles.

Rachel DiPaola | Chief of Staff & Senior Director, Transformation at Big Fish Games

Theadora is an exceptional senior technical writer at Big Fish Games, combining deep technical expertise with a talent for clear, engaging documentation. His ability to distill complex information into user-friendly content has been invaluable in enhancing both internal and external partner-facing materials. Theadora's keen eye for detail, strong collaboration skills, and commitment to delivering high-quality work make him a standout in his field. He is not only a skilled writer but also a creative problem-solver who elevates every project he touches. Any team would be lucky to have him!

Joy Horvath | Senior Program Manager - Elevate at Unity Technologies

I had the pleasure of hiring Theadora as a contract Technical Writer at Unity during the early days of Unity Learn. At the time, my team was focused on making Learn a premier learning platform, which meant we needed to rapidly expand our tutorial library. Theadora played a crucial role in helping us achieve that goal.

Their unique combination of skills—as a technical writer, Unity developer, and programmer—made them an invaluable asset. They were able to create high-quality learning content across a wide range of topics, helping us build a strong foundation for Learn's successful launch. Beyond their expertise, Theadora is easygoing, adaptable, and always focused on delivering great content. They iterate quickly as needs evolve, making them a fantastic collaborator in a fast-moving environment.

I highly recommend Theadora to anyone looking for a skilled and versatile technical writer who understands both the technical and educational sides of content creation. They would be a tremendous addition to any team!